CUT

1. The deck is offered flat against the layout, in front of the insurance line, with the cut card on top. At least 15 cards must be cut from either end.
2. The dealer must protect the bottom card, making sure that no one will be able to see the face of the card.
3. After the cut, the deck is brought back to the center of the rack and the cards are taken below the cut card to the top without lifting the deck.
4. One card is burned.

SPREAD

1. On a dead game, the cards should be spread tightly, as close to the rack as possible, with the cut card on top.
2. When being relieved, the dealer will turn the cards that are left in his/her hand 180 degrees before placing them in the discard rack and then spreading as above.
3. The relief dealer will not have to turn the cards for the next shuffle.

PROCEDURES

1. The game is played with one normal deck, no jokers.
2. The cards are pitched. In the case of multiple hands, the cards are tucked slightly under the bet for the second or third hands.

3. The player may double down on cards totaling 10 or 11 only.
4. The player may split (for the full amount of the original wager) all equal valued cards, except Aces, three times (making up to four hands). The player may hit on split Aces only once.
5. All players' blackjacks are paid 1 to 1 (even money). The insurance bet is always a separate side bet, paying 2 to 1. (The player does not get even money when insuring with a blackjack.
6. The dealer must hit soft 17.
7. Players may play a maximum of 3 hands.

ENTRY RULES

1. There is NO mid-round entry!!
2. Players may increase or decrease the number of hands played during one round.
3. Players may not sit out one hand completely and then come back in. If they sit out, they must stay out, until the shuffle.

DETERMINING THE NUMBER OF ROUNDS

1. The "six" rule is used: The number of players (or spots) is subtracted from "six" to determine the number of rounds to be dealt. For example, if there are three players, three rounds are to be dealt ($6-3=3$). If there are four players, two rounds are to be dealt ($6-4=2$). If there are two players, four rounds are to be dealt ($6-2=4$), etc. However, if there are five players, two hands may be dealt. This is an exception to the rule.
